A GUIDE FROM
STUDY WORK GROW

Open Day Guide

2019

Ready for Open Day?

There are a few different approaches you could take to Open Day season:

The Buffet Approach

Go to every Open Day you can, pick up all the goodie bags, and end up overwhelmed and possibly confused.

The Determined Approach

Only go to your first choice, refuse to consider any other options, and become even more infatuated with your preferred uni.

The “(ツ)” Approach

You’re not sure what you want to do, so you go to the ones your mum tells you to, or the ones your friends are going to.

The ‘Head in the Sand’ Approach

Don’t go at all, and pretend it’s not happening.

or...

The Informed Approach

Spend 10 minutes working out which Open Days you should add to your schedule. Read this Guide, put together your schedule, print it and stick it somewhere you’ll see it, then enjoy Open Day season.

Why Open Day?

Wondering if it's worth your time? Making the trip to an Open Day or two can literally change your future. Here in the Study Work Grow office we all have a story about how going to an Open Day impacted what we chose to do once school was over.

6 Top Reasons to go to Open Day

You'll get all the answers in the one place

Everything you need to know is made available at Open Day, so whether you're worried about accommodation options, interested in what subjects are available, or just looking for the best clubs to join on campus, you'll find it all at Open Day.

Speak with people who are actually teaching and learning on campus

The rest of the year you'll be stuck speaking over the phone to the Future Students team. On Open Day most of the staff and many of the students are there and ready to talk.

Check out your other options

Unless you are the world's most confident student, you're going to need a Plan B. Don't wait until you get your ATAR to look at what else is out there, head along to Open Day and check out each and every faculty – who knows, you may even see something that'll become your new Plan A.

Sort out your application

There's more than one way to apply to uni. While you're at Open Day ask the application teams about alternative entry or early entry schemes you could be eligible for, and check that you've got the right details for your application.

Check out the accommodation, social clubs, extracurriculars and more

Open Day is a great opportunity to tour the on-campus accommodation, check out the gym, cafes, and library, and to generally see what else is out there.

Speak with support services

Teams will be there to explain their scholarships and financial support, disability and learning support, and even things like how they can help you get a job.

Find the right Open Days for you

There are A LOT of Open Days (we counted 146) and many of them fall on the same day, which leads to a whole load of scheduling conflict.

But you don't really need to go to all of them. You just need to go to two kinds of Open Days:

1. Ones on your 'strong possibility list'
2. Ones that are close to home and/or easier to get in to

If you just go to Open Day at your #1 uni choice then you could miss out on other options that suit you just as well (or better) and are also closer to home and/or easier to get in to.

How do you know which ones to go to?

Build a campus shortlist

If you've got a dream course then of course you're going to want to check out institutions that offer your course. Before you go to Open Day, make sure that uni offers it and that you meet their requirements.

Also, some uni's offer different subjects at different campuses, so you need to check you're going to the right campus. For example, JCU offer Physiotherapy as an undergraduate degree, but only at the Townsville campus.

So, once you've got a university and campus shortlist you can plan your Open Day schedule.

But what about the 'other' kind of Open Day?

Don't discount universities just because they're not on your dream shortlist, especially if they offer other benefits like being close to home.

Sure, if you're 100% certain you don't want to go there then don't waste your time at Open Day.

But if you make the effort you could surprise yourself, and you could even end up with a great Plan B.

Preparation is key

Once you've worked out which ones you want to go to and put together your schedule (use the handy scheduler at the end of this Guide), there are a few more things you need to do before you can relax:

Step 1 - Learn about you

What are your must-haves for a university? If you don't know what you're looking for then you're basically window shopping.

Ask yourself:	Yes	No
Do you need support services or financial help?
Will you be living on campus?
Do you have a car, or will you be using public transport?
Do you want to mix work and study? If so, do they offer online units?
Do you want to defer and go on a Gap Year?
Have you thought about what you want to do once uni is over?

Which features are 'wants' and which are 'needs'? You may want to mix work and study but need to live on campus.

Step 2 - Learn about your options

Now you know what you are looking for, spend a few minutes learning about the different campuses before you turn up to Open Day:

- Do they offer the support services you need?
- What accommodation is available? Or can you stay at home?
- Is there parking or is it easy to use public transport?
- Are there flexible study options, including online study?
- Do they have quality teachers and learning resources?
- Do they help you prepare for work and/or find a job?
- Do they offer your preferred course, and do they offer alternatives?

Use your answers to compare your options before you start applying later in the year.

The Open Day Checklist

Find out everything you need to know to prepare for Open Day Season, so you can get the most out of your time.

Register Online

Let them know you're coming – that way you'll be the first to find out about the workshops and events held on the day (so you can get spots first), plus they often offer prizes for registering. Some Open Days require registration to attend.

Get your bearings

Campuses often have thousands of students and can be HUGE, so it pays to familiarise yourself with the layout before you turn up. Download a map or print one off, circle the 'must-sees' and if they offer maps on the day it's a good idea to take one.

How will you get there?

Car – parking can be hectic, so plan where you're going to park and how to navigate there. Public transport is usually great around universities, but you may need to check which bus/train will get you there and if they have, and any special services for the day.

Plan your day

You should be able to find an online planner or downloadable program, so grab your copy and then decide which events on the day you want to go to. You may need to register for individual events so you don't miss out.

Take a friend

If you can, enlist a friend or family member to go with you on the day. They'll be able to give you a second opinion and make sure you get all the answers you need.

Wear clothes you can walk in

Expect to cover a lot of distance on Open Day, so shoes should be reliable and blister-proof. Pack a pen & notebook, or download a note-taking app like Google Keep before you go. You'll also need your list of questions (see the next page for ideas) and if they offer help with applications on the day then take any documents you'll need.

Once you're there

Participate as much as you can – lectures, workshops, tours, etc. Talk to students and teachers and take brochures so you can remember what they told you. Most importantly, remember to enjoy yourself.

Ideas for Questions

Now is not the time to be shy. Just dive in and ask as many questions as possible. Sometimes Open Day can be busy, and you may have to wait to be able to speak with the right person but that's ok, it's your best chance to get the right information.

Some ideas to get you started:

- What kind of jobs do people do after this degree?
- Are there any practical components, field-trips or internships?
- Is it competitive to get in, and are there alternative entry options?
- How easy is it to change if I don't enjoy this course?
- Can I study part-time if my circumstances change?
- Will I be able to work straight away, or is there more training?
- What subjects should I study at school?
- Are there any scholarships available?
- Will I get to choose my major after starting the degree?
- Is it possible to study any subjects online?

Open Day Alternatives

Can't make it to Open Day? Don't worry, you have other options.

People miss out on Open Day for a whole variety of reasons; perhaps you live too far away, or need to work that day, maybe there's more than one on the same day and you can't get to both, or even if you're not well enough to make it, that's ok.

Here are some suggestions you could use to get the answers you need:

Online

There are lots of Online Open Days (we have a whole section of them at the end of this Guide) so start by checking if your preferred universities offer an online Open Day. If not, book in for one of their webinars or online info sessions.

Phone

Pick up the phone and call Future Students – you can usually speak with someone who'll answer your questions and give you more of an idea of what it's like to study there.

Other Events

Universities usually offer info sessions, experience days, campus tours, free public lectures, exhibition openings and more that you can use to create your own mini Open Day experience.

Ask for a tour

Some universities offer tours on set dates, others offer tours each week, and some offer personalised tours (these are the best). If you can't find them on the website then try calling Future Students.

Info Days

Most universities also offer 'Info Days' after ATAR's are released – these are designed for Year 12's who are making final choices for their degrees, but you can sometimes tag along even if you're in Year 10 or 11.

Other Resources

This Guide is your #1 Resource for Open Days in 2019, but there's more to this Guide than meets the eye:
